

In some specializations, admitted students from non-scientific high schools must pass a number of remedial courses.