

The Student can be exempted from studying many courses by transferring credits from other universities or by the admission exams and in all cases the student doesn't have to pay for courses that are not required.