External Reviewing of the Academic Programmes at the College of Arts and Science – Academic Year 2021/2022

Writteb By:
Dr. Moaiad Khder Head of Department of Computer Science

College of Arts and Science finished the External Reviewing for its three academic programmes (Interior Design, Graphics Design and Computer Science) as part of the periodical review process.

Having carefully engaged in the development of programmes of study it is important that any changes to programmes are monitored closely by the University. Changes to the programme are normally proposed and made as part of the annual or periodic review of programmes.

One of the major programmes quality activities is to supplement the annual reviews by a regular and comprehensive periodic review of programmes in colleges critically examine the programmes and ensure they are still relevant and meeting their aims examine the content of the programmes to ensure that they are up to date and relevant confirm that the programmes continue to comply with the requirements of external agencies such as the Higher Education Council (HEC), Directorate of Higher Education Reviews (DHR), Quality Assurance Authority (GDQ) and operate in accordance with the University Bylaws review and comment upon future plans for the programme.

The purpose of the periodic review is to:

The review is based on a report (Programme Reflective Analysis Report - PRAR) prepared by the Programme Leader which provides a critical appraisal of each of the programmes being reviewed noting any strengths or weaknesses (this will be informed by examination of the annual programme review reports provided since the last periodic review of the programme). It should also look at trends in statistical data which form part of the annual programme review reports.

In addition it will provide a commentary based on the views of at least one external examiner. The full report (s) from the external examiner should be provided as an Appendix to the Reflective Analysis. The external examiner is a subject expert in the discipline(s) covered by the programme.

The report will also provide benchmarking evidence to demonstrate that the content of the programme is comparable with similar programmes offered at other Higher Education institutions. The college of Arts and Science finished the informal benchmarking and currently waiting to start the formal benchmarking after obtaining the required approvals.

The report will discuss any external reviews conducted since the last periodic review and confirm that all recommendations from such reviews have been fully addressed.

Finally the report will provide a brief section which highlights any significant achievements since the last periodic review and any examples of good practice or innovation which could potentially be transferred to other programmes.
