Brief about the Programme

The Master in Commercial Law programme is one of the leading postgraduate programmes, aiming to provide the local and regional market with specialised and distinguished legal competencies in commercial law, particularly in advanced fields of legal studies related to commercial topics such as commercial arbitration, commercial companies, international trade contracts, banking operations, industrial and commercial property elements, maritime law, stock exchange, securities, promotion of commercial competition, and other advanced commercial legal topics.

The programme aims to prepare a competent graduate capable of making a genuine contribution to the labour market, enabling them to address new and emerging legal challenges. Students may choose between 9 courses plus a research thesis, or 10 courses plus an applied project.

Aims of the Programme

1. Meet the needs of society by providing graduates specialised in commercial law, capable of serving it and working with high efficiency, by enabling learners to acquire critical knowledge, use professional skills, and innovate in their application.
2. Prepare graduates capable of using a combination of approaches to conduct interpretation, critical analysis, weighting, and reasoning in the field of commercial law and related emerging legal topics.
3. Encourage rigorous scientific research and innovation among graduates in commercial law, contribute to it, and develop their skills in using sound research methods, methodology, and ethics, and mastering its tools.
4. Develop and refine graduates' scientific capabilities and create an appropriate climate for creativity and innovation in commercial law, in a manner consistent with professional ethics and social responsibility.
5. Develop graduates' communication skills to convey complex information and ideas in commercial law, and work independently in changing contexts.
